Sport and Nature

Asolo Golf Club

In a kind and professional atmosphere you will find, besides a golf course with 27 holes, the Club House with the restaurant “28^a Buca”, an American bar, 2 tennis courts, a soccer field and the golf school “RET Golf Team”.

Golf Club Cansiglio

A natural route with 18 holes where the roughness of the karst terrain have been cleverly exploited to make it varied and pleasantly challenging; a mountain camp that according to many is one of the most beautiful of Europe.

Golf Club Villa Condulmer

The golf course is the cornerstone of a natural location. The 18 holes route par 71 and 5900 meters long was built in different times. The first 9 holes wind through the centuries-old trees in the park of Villa Condulmer; the second ones were built 10 years later.

Golf Club Lignano

The Club House is located at the entrance of the association. It offers its members all the necessary comforts for relaxing after the 18 holes. Within the club makes available its clientele a reading room, a bridge room, dressing rooms and a well-equipped Pro-shop.

Naturalistic itineraries – The Prosecco Wine Route

From our favoured starting point we intersect with the Prosecco Superiore DOCG Wine Route

The main route wanted to trace the original route of the Road for its undeniable historical and cultural value.

Our tour starts in Rua di San Pietro di Feletto and its seventeenth-century cloister, and then get to San Pietro di Feletto where rises up the beautiful church.

The next stretch of road wind until Refrontolo, whereas a short detour may lead to the charming Molinetto della Croda.

Arrived in Solighetto, we recognize the eighteenth-century Villa Brandolini. Not far, in Soligo, rises the church of Santa Maria Nova date back to the 14th century. A short trip leads to the temple of San Gallo, on the homonymous hill, from which you can enjoy a breath-taking panoramic view of the underlying Piave's Valley.

Passed Farra di Soligo, we reach Col San Martino with its Medieval Torri di Credazzo and the true architectural and artistic jewel of the church of San Virgilio.

Overstepped Santo Stefano and San Pietro di Barbozza we arrive in Valdobbiadene, and more exactly to Villa dei Cedri. From Valdobbiadene we continue on in the direction of Guia.

Passed river Soligo and crossed the SP4, in Pedeguarda you quickly reach towards Farrò, in a location in many places new because vineyards, often steep and craggy, open or are counterbalanced by dense woods.

Left behind Arfanta, we head towards Tarzo an Corbanese first, and then Cozzuolo, Carpesica, Ogliano along a stretch of road characterized by interesting hydraulic and agricultural works such as the “ciglioni”.

Our tour ends across the centre of Conegliano, city that offers the chance of a walk through the porticos of Contrada Grande.

The Torchiato of Fregona

The Torchiato is one of the oenological treat of the region.

Fregona stretches at the foot of the forest of Cansiglio and it is made of small sunny villages, scattered at the foot of Monte Pizzoc.

Fregona is well-known for its typical products of the surrounding mountain and for the fine production of the Torchiato DOCG. Interesting are the graceful Villa Salvador, the original bell tower of the church, Villa Troyer, and finally the striking and spectacular Grotte del Caglieron.

History and Culture between Serravalle and Follina

The itinerary is dedicated to visiting some of the most significant architectural heritage of the area.

It starts from Conegliano and its castle, then touching Rua di San Pietro di Feletto, with its Romanesque church, and then we head towards the Molinetto della Croda Refrontolo. You go up to Rolle and Farrò to dive back towards Follina where you can not miss a visit to the extraordinary Cistercian Abbey with the lovely cloister, the Monastery and the Basilica.

Going eastward from Follina we meet the imposing Castle of the Brandolini recently carefully restored. Originally this castle was a fortification used for the control of Valmarena and Praderadego. In the '500s has been remodeled and transformed from the original style in the Venetian Renaissance style and in '700s was further expanded. The Castle of the Brandolini dominates the attractive village of Cison Valmarino.

Under the terms of architecture, worthy of note in Cison are also the church of San Martino, San Vito, San Francesco, San Silvestro, San Gottardo, the Church, and finally the church of Beata Vergine delle Grazie, built in memory of the fallen of the First World War.

Further down the Vallata, we find villages that have retained traditional traits and architectures, such as Tovenà, Santa Maria and Revine, until you reach the town of Vittorio Veneto.

The "City of Victory" closely links its name to the end of the Great War. But if the current city was born 22nd November 1866, the history of the two centers, which have given life by their union in Vittorio Veneto, has deeper roots.

Serravalle was defined in the '500 little Florence in the Veneto region and is undoubtedly one of the most historic towns rich in historical and artistic documents of Veneto. Piazza Flaminio summarizes the history and characteristics of the place, remembering a "Venetian square" onto which the buildings of the old aristocratic families.

The center of Ceneda is instead dominated by the imposing presence of the Castle of S. Martin, but the center is still represented by Piazza John Paul I, where the Cathedral and the beautiful building called Loggia of Ceneda. Near there we find also the Park of Villa Papadopoli..

Near Vittorio Veneto there are several artistic and environmental sites worthy of note, in particular the springs of Meschio.

Returning to Follina, heading west, we intersect Miane and Combai, famous for chestnuts, before rejoining in Guia to the main ring of the Wine Road.

The feud of Collalto

This last path, also on foot, crosses the territory of the ancient feud of the Lords of Collalto, whose heart is made up of the Castle of Susegana and that not far from of Collalto.

The Castle of Susegana, or of San Salvatore dates back to the fourteenth century, remodeled in the sixteenth century, is considered one of the largest fortified systems of Italy occupying the entire top of the hill.

The Castle of Collalto, however, was built in 1110 by Ensedisio I. Currently there are only the ruins that represent what remains of one of the oldest possessions of the Counts of Collalto.

Along the ring, are very interersting also the land division, the urban layout, and the infrastructures preserved in the estate of the Collalto respecting the traditional system.
